Under A Good Omen

The handling of the United Nations charter up to the present time has created a good omen for its speedy ratification by the Senate. Democracy has set a good example.

Scrutiny pains have been taken to avert the slightest suspicion of secret diplomacy. The charter was drafted in the light of publicity. It is the product of all the "peace-loving" states. The preliminary spadework at Dumbarton Oaks last year kept attention on its aims and gave it the benefit of an informed public opinion. During negotiations, the Senate was kept fully informed; two members of the Senate were among the United States delegates. These senators now have taken responsibility for guiding the charter through the process of ratification. It is by no means accidental that there is so little doubt of its success as far as the United States is concerned. It was planned that way.

The planning was a reaction from the tragic bungling of the League of Nations issue a generation ago. The preliminary draft on that occasion was an improvisation representing nothing but the opinions of a handful of men. The finished draft was prepared by five major powers with the nominal assistance of five small powers; one man, Woodrow Wilson, dominated the drafting committee. There was no real meeting of minds. In this country, there had been no real cooperation with the Senate, only a few nominal gestures that did more harm than good. The upshot of the mishandling was to make the United States, champion of representative democracy, seem to be distrustful of its own doctrines. The League of Nations was not so much rejected by the United States as betrayed by mishandling.

Union Discipline

Richard T. Frankenstein's description of a strike epidemic in the Detroit area as "mobocracy" will strike sparks. As vice president of United Automobile Workers and one of C.I.O.'s prominent figures, Mr. Frankenstein is in a position to know about the problem of discipline in labor unions.

It is the problem of persuading great numbers of persons to behave in a responsible manner in collective bargaining—a procedure manifestly impossible without a strong sense of responsibility and discipline. The whole theory of contracts between management and unions depends on the ability of unions to carry out their obligations. Whereas a breach of a contract by management can be dealt with, there has been no way devised so far to deal with a breach by union members. In Detroit and Akron, and in other important war production areas the attempts of the War Labor Board to make members live up to contract terms in order to settle damaging strikes are being openly rebuffed.

This is the present background for discussion of the fair labor practices bill recently introduced in the Senate by Senators Ball, Burton and Hatch. They do not claim that their proposal has all the answers. They only contend that since better answers must be found than those now in use their bill is a good place to start discussion.

The Home Front Comes Through

Americans are few who would attempt to classify their investments in War Bonds under the heading of "sacrifice." Doubtless innumerable such purchases have represented serious temporary inconvenience to buyers. But most Americans look upon War Bond buying both as one of the best investment opportunities ever offered, and as a simple and inescapable duty to perform. Rare are those who would cite their War Bonds as proof of individual patriotism.

The record of the American people in six War Loan drives, which they have maintained in the now-closing Seventh drive, does offer its evidence that the Home Front has been conscious—and has acted on the consciousness—of its responsibility. It is evidence that those who could contribute nothing more than dollars to the fight have, for the most part, made full use of the ammunition available to them.

Actually, the nation's record in the seven War Loan drives has been one to astound. Quotas in those drives totaled 102 billion dollars—an incomprehensible sum. The tabulation of returns on the Seventh Drive still are incomplete. But on the basis of latest reports, more than $5,000,000,000 Americans are shown to have invested more than 135 billion dollars.

The record shows that, not only have total quotas in each drive been surpassed, but individual goals set for various types of bonds also have been exceeded. The record goes still further to show that individual states and communities which have failed to perform their assigned portions of the whole job have been the rare exceptions. This, of course, is another way of saying that Americans everywhere, and of every economic bracket, have made the achievement possible.

As remarked, individuals aren't claiming medals because of the War Bonds they have bought. They know they aren't entitled to any. They expect no praise for having done that which would have shamed them, had they failed to do.

But the fact remains that the American record on War Bond drives represents the most astounding financial achievement of its kind in history. It is evidence that, whatever else most Americans may or may not be doing in behalf of victory, they are not making slackers of their dollars.

Germans Future Government

Curt Riess, writing from Germany, reports that most Germans regard the Russian occupation as more lenient than that of the Americans or the British. He bases this statement on his observation of the American occupation program and on talks with people who have lived in the Russian-occupied zone.

The NEA Service correspondent writes that the Russians are giving their German charges more food than they received in the last months under Hitler; that plays, movies and concerts have been resumed; that radio broadcasts stress present co-operation and future hope, while ours are more inclined to emphasize past misdeeds.

Most of this Mr. Riess says he believes. And even at this distance there would seem to be logical reasons why he should.

The Russians naturally hate the Germans who overran their land, laid waste their cities, and inflicted barbarous cruelties on their countrymen. They have greater reason even than the French and British, and infinitely greater reason than the Americans, for loathing the whole German race.

Yet the Russian government realizes, as do other governments, that Germany must exist and be lived with in the future. Moscow is pledged to concerted action with London and Washington in ruling Germany until such time as the Germans are thought fit for self-government. When the time comes Germany will probably be permitted to choose an acceptable form of government in a free election.

Naturally each of the three Allies would like to see a German government patterned after its own model. And the Russians would seem to have begun already a campaign to present communism in the best possible light.

Thus far they seem to be succeeding. After Dr. Goebbels' tales of Russian terror and vengeance, any gentleness must have been an agreeable surprise to the Germans. And if any of the numerous Communist party of pre-Hitler Germany survive, they will undoubtedly try to help in making this first impression a lasting one.

The prospect of a Russian-dominated Europe sets many Anglo-American minds reeling. But the prospect is not a foregone conclusion. The Americans and British in Germany also have an opportunity to sell their way of life to the Germans through propaganda, education and general behavior.

There is no reason why communism, republican democracy and constitutional monarchy should not compete on their merits for German acceptance.

The Stars Say

For Saturday, June 30.

A SUDDENLY precipitated event or dramatic upheaval might be just the stimuli needed to concentrate the energies, plans and creative abilities on a program of merit and significance that might have far-reaching effect on the life and its destiny. Matters of prime importance might possibly be based upon a devastating circumstance, clash or estrangement, on which progress, position, money and security depend.

Bold attack, sustained and reasoned efforts, in which influence and prestige of those in high places, might prove assets of real value. But shun impetuosity and overdramatic moves or rash emotional drives. Keep cool and steady.

Those whose birthday it is may be jolted into a position where their energies, abilities, and sturdy character may prove of genuine and lasting benefit, by a dramatic, sudden, even devastating adventure or situation. Some sort of crisis might beget the desire to move into a place of safety, accomplishment with the substantial cooperation of those in place and power, attracted by the show of responsibility and worth.

But studious and well-laid plans, system and organization, would prove more beneficial than over-enthusiastic or impetuous drives. "Step, look and listen" before forging ahead in such climax, recklessly.

A child born on this day may possess real abilities and desire to achieve something worthwhile but it may need a catastrophe or sudden and explosive experience to help it "find itself."

Ludwig's Angina, A Mouth Infection

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

LUDWIG'S angina is not an uncommon disorder. There is the condition in which there is severe infection of the mouth and the tissues in the neck. The infection frequently starts in an infected tooth, most often in the last tooth or third lower molar. It would appear also, according to Doctors John Farr and E. D. Stanhope of England, that a lack of vitamin C in the body is a contributing cause for this condition.

The symptoms of Ludwig's angina consist of an infection in the floor of the mouth which causes a swelling of the tissues and which then causes the tongue to be raised, in severe cases even to stick out of the mouth. There may be some shortness of breath, difficulty in swallowing due to the swelling of the tissues, and pressure on the windpipe and esophagus. The latter is the tube which leads from the mouth to the stomach. There is also a widespread, tender swelling beneath the jaw. It is this swelling which produces pressure on the windpipe.

Simple Surgery

Doctors Farr and Stanhope believe that when the symptoms are present there should be no delay in carrying out treatment, and they favor a simple surgical method of caring for the condition. The operation which they use consists in the making of a cut about one inch below the lower jaw bone. This permits the infected materials present to drain out and relieve the pressure and other symptoms. A drain is introduced in the opening which, of course, hastens the discharge of infected materials.

Naturally the sulfonamide drugs have been excellently used in treating Ludwig's angina, but Doctors Farr and Stanhope think these drugs should be used only as an auxiliary form of treatment, and chief reliance placed on the operation. If germs which form gas predominate in the infection, which is shown by swelling of the tissues, it may be wisest to apply hydrogen peroxide or zinc peroxide to wash out the wound.

Vaseline Dressing

On the fourth to sixth day after operation, the drainage tube is removed and the wound kept dressed with vaseline dressings which are changed when necessary.

A scar, of course, is left, but in practically all instances the scar has not been an excessively noticeable one.

Ludwig's angina is a dangerous disorder. Every effort should be made to keep it from occurring by taking proper care of the teeth and by promptly treating any mouth disorders. Should the condition develop, prompt treatment is important.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

C. N.:—What causes puffiness under the eyes?

Answer:—Puffiness under the eyelids frequently comes from a lack of rest and sleep. If you are getting sufficient rest and are taking the proper exercise each day, and the puffiness still persists, it may be because there is some disturbance in the water balance in the body. There is no need to worry about this matter, for it can cause no trouble.

R. D.:—Is bleeding from the nipple a sign of cancer? The woman is forty-six and has no pain or other sign of a lump.

Answer:—Bleeding from the nipple is not necessarily a sign of cancer. However, it is a symptom which demands investigation, since it may indicate some infection of the breast or the presence of some benign type of tumor.

T. E.:—Will you please tell me the cause of piles? Can they be cured permanently or just relieved? Are there injections for this?

Answer:—The cause of piles is not definitely known. Constipation and straining while having a bowel movement are contributing causes. An operation seems to be the most satisfactory type of cure. Injections given around the piles are often useful. Piles can be permanently cured.

Rome Gorges Itself On New Freedom of Press

ROME — Freedom of the press came to Rome last year with the Eternal City's liberation and perhaps no place in the world takes this cherished right more literally.

Journalistic Rome today resembles pamphleteering colonial America and the florid "ought to be horsewhipped" type of editorializing common in America through the Civil War.

The emphasis is on hot local politics and crimes of passion. For 21 years no one could be murdered under Fascism, nor could a man's death be suicide in the public prints. Under Il Duce one either died naturally so far as the newspapers were concerned, or one didn't die.

Senators May Limit Oratory After Long Session Yesterday

By FRANCIS J. KELLY

WASHINGTON, June 29.—A 12 1/2-hour session that ended early today brought the Senate face-to-face with a decision whether to ration oratory.

Sen. Taft (R., Ohio) and 31 colleagues representing both major parties presented a petition to limit senatorial debate.

Most of the unlimited conversation which began at noon yesterday centered on a controversial proposal to vote operating funds to the fair employment practice committee, which has a minimum of support from southern senators.

Sen. Bilbo (D., Miss.) and a talkative bloc of southerners opposed the FEPC proposition on their contention it spelled trouble between the races, friction in industry and governmental meddling in business.

Sen. Chavez (D., N. M.) contended the southerners were attempting to thwart the will of a majority of the Senate.

The committee is designed to prevent discrimination because of race, color, creed or national origin. Chavez seeks to write a $446,200 appropriation for FEPC into a $770,000 omnibus bill carrying funds to support a score of war agencies such as selective service, the War Production board and the Office of Defense Transportation.

Theoretically, if the bill isn't passed by midnight tomorrow, the end of the current fiscal year, none of the agencies will have operating funds. Practically, the situation won't be that acute.

If Taft's cloture petition is successful, it means every senator is limited to one hour of talk on the pending question.

JAPS FEARING U. S. ALEUTIAN TROOPS

(By Associated Press)
SAN FRANCISCO, June 29.—Japan gave top priority today to transfer of its home industries to Manchuria, and turned nervous attention towards the Aleutians, where Tokyo radio said the United States was massing mountain trained fighters and paratroopers.

The transfer of war industries to the Asia mainland was declared by Tokyo radio to be even "more fundamental" than dispersion of industries in Japan to escape American air blows.

Tokyo said "a division composed solely of Alpine troops" was being stationed on Agatsuma Island, in the outer Aleutians near Attu, and that paratroopers were being placed throughout the northern region.

The broadcast claimed Vice Adm. Frank Jack Fletcher's U. S. Ninth fleet was awaiting an opportunity to strike from the north. A light unit of the fleet recently attacked a Japanese convoy in the sea of Okhotsk.

A Tokyo newspaper correspondent was quoted as saying the transfer of industries to Manchuria was an "attempt to establish a secure system for a protracted war, with Japan as a nucleus force."

The War Today

munists were calling Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek a despot and were demanding his removal and punishment. Significantly, at the same time the Moscow press was supporting these demands for "liquidation of the Kuomintang dictatorship" and creation of a coalition government.

It's difficult to believe that Premier Soong could achieve agreement for Russian aid against Japan unless he provided assurances that Chinese Communism would get its place in the sun. Such assurances would be a lever with which vast China and its five hundred millions of people could be turned topsy-turvy politically.

The millions of Chinese Communists are in the northern part of the country near Russian territory. They have several numerically powerful armies in the field—ostensibly to fight the Japanese but also to keep a weather eye on Chiang's forces.

Suppose the Soviet union should decide to throw its aid to the Allies in the war against Japan, and should give help in the form of military supplies shipped across the border into China. Those supplies presumably would go largely to the neighboring Chinese northern armies—which are the Red forces. Obviously this would place them in a powerful position for bargaining with Chiang Kai-Shek. Obviously 'oo, this would enhance Russia's prestige in China.

Of course all this is speculative but whatever may come out of the Soong visit to Moscow, of this we may be sure: We soon shall see an expansion of Soviet influence in the Orient. Just as the Red tide is moving across Europe, so it is going to reach out into China and other Asiatic countries. It's a geographical "natural."

That's not to suggest Russia is looking for territorial expansion. However, she may be expected to push her political influence, especially with countries lying on her borders.

by taking an ice pick and driving it through the screen and the window of Mrs. Stevens' house.

The coroner said that "in reprisal, Mrs. Stevens dashed out of her house and threw a beer glass through a living room window in the Milton home."

The coroner said that from the testimony of James D. Kovacs it would appear "the mere refusal of Albert to leave the Milton home when ordered to do so by Mrs. Stevens produced three shots from the gun of Mrs. Stevens and caused his death."

James, brother of the slain sailor, had driven him to the Milton home to see Faith Coombs, a one-time high school classmate acting as maid for the Miltons' three children. Mrs. Stevens had told police that Albert attempted to attack her as she ordered the brothers to leave the house. James vigorously denied this.

'War Is Hell, But...'

By HAL E. COOPER

WASHINGTON—Two weeks after doffing the baggy khaki of the Air Corps I feel justified in reporting the establishment of a small beachhead on the shore of civilian life, and am regrouping my emotions for a deeper penetration. Frankly it looks rough.

Many major obstacles lie ahead—the deciphering of ration books, the computing of pay-as-you-go income taxes, the foraging for food, and finding a place to live in a city where the dogs are doubling up in their kennels.

But I've reached the point where my store-bought shoes don't hurt (much) and I can pick my way among the teeming hordes without a twitch in the saluting arm.

I can laugh now, hollowly, at that solemn pledge I made every time I had to hurry up and wait in the Army: No more standing in line for anything as long as I lived.

When you see a line in civilian life you get in it.

I tacked on to a block-long queue in front of a drug store this morning and wound up with two packs of a brand of fags I never heard of. The first puff made me mildly homesick for a P.X. The second made me mildly sick.

I am billeted with a friend who is lucky enough to be a resident of long standing in an apartment building only a few blocks from the office. I am beginning to feel like the man who came to dinner, but from the look of the housing ads there hasn't been a vacancy in these parts since John Nance Garner left for Uvalde.

Armed with a brand new assortment of ration books, I set out confidently last night to track down a couple of pounds of beefsteak, a loaf of bread and some country butter.

"Well, good bye, friend," said my host.

"Whaddya mean, good bye?" I asked. "The store is just around the corner."

I came back three hours later with a piece of fish, half a pound of butter substitute and the bread. But the time was well spent. I now know the addresses of stores all over that part of Washington.

Acquiring a wardrobe which wasn't thrown at me by a dyspeptic supply clerk—and which fit—gave me my biggest lift since my discharge at Ft. Dix. On it I spent

It's Still Thursday In Ohio Assembly Session

COLUMBUS, June 29—Today is Friday to everyone in Ohio except members of the 96th general assembly and their aides. For them it's still Thursday.

It all comes about because legislators were unable to complete their work last night on the agreed date for ending the regular session and scheduled further deliberations today.

They did it by "stopping the clock" last night so that today they still are working Thursday—legislatively speaking.

The senate last night recessed "for five minutes until 10 a. m." and the house "for 15 minutes until 10:30 a. m."

WHAT THE FARMER THINKS

Reporter, On Tour of West and Mid-West, Learns Farmers and Dealers in Farm Products In Favor Of "Food Czar"

By OVID A. MARTIN

Associated Press Farm Editor
WASHINGTON, June 29—Farmers, dealers in farm products and processors of them are overwhelmingly in support of the ideal of a "food czar."

This fact stood out in hearings held by the house food shortage investigating committee on its recent cross-country tour.

The farmers, dealers and processors interpreted President Truman's action in appointing Rep. Anderson (D-NM) as secretary of agriculture and war food administrator as a move to coordinate all food programs under a single agency. Anderson is chairman of the committee. He takes over Monday in his new job.

Many of the complaints raised by various segments of the food industry—from farmer to retailer—involved production, price and distribution problems growing out of divided authority in Washington.

Typical of the reaction to Anderson's appointment as food chief was a statement made at Omaha by Sam McKelvie, member of the Hoover administration's Farm board.

"It was the best news farmers had received from Washington in many months," he told the committee.

OPA Is Target

As an observer at the hearings, I was astonished to find how intense was the feeling against the Office of Price Administration at every place the committee stopped. There was an inclination for producers as well as middlemen to blame this agency for all their difficulties.

Often witnesses criticized the OPA for policies or programs for which it was not responsible. When they did, Anderson, the committee chairman, usually set them right.

At Omaha several farmers complained of "OPA failure" to support hog prices in the winter of 1943-44 as the government had promised. Anderson explained that price support programs belonged to the War Food Administration and not to the OPA.

Types of Complaint

Nevertheless, two classes of complaints against the OPA appeared—both to members of the committee and myself—to be well founded. They were:

1. A tendency to fail to consult with various phases of the food industry in establishing price control and other regulations. Such consultation is required by law.

2. A refusal to act upon appeals from the industry for adjustments to remedy hardships or to take care of special local conditions.

Acting under requirements of the price laws the OPA set up industry advisory committees representing virtually every food commodity. It generally followed the practice of calling these committees to Washington before issuing an order.

Yet more than a score of these committees told the food committee that when they got to Washington they found that the OPA already had made up its mind. Several testified that the OPA had actually issued press releases of new orders even before they arrived in Washington.

Japanese In Field Still Think They're Winning

CLEVELAND, June 29.—The Japanese troops whose fanatic defense of Iwo Jima and Okinawa made capture of those islands so costly died believing the Mikado's armies had invaded Central and South America and were poised for an attack on Texas, declared a Navy officer who served as beachmaster in both invasions.

Lt. Commander Ralph H. Dombey, former chief of navy recruiting here, told an interviewer, "the Jap in the field thinks he's winning this war."

Mullins Makes Sure Of First Round Title With 8-4 Win

Dale Ritchie Extends His Scoreless Frame Streak To 34 As Potters Win 2 To 0

Crashing through with an 8-4 victory when victory was all-important, a powerful Mullins team last night defeated the Recreation at Centennial park to put the screws to the lid on their first round title.

If you can find anything in a pitching manner working smoother than Dale Ritchie of the Salem China, now in second place, you will have to do some searching.

The Potter ace chalked up his fifth straight shut-out, 2-0, over Leetonia and ran his string of scoreless frames to 34. Not only that, but the hurler fanned 13 Leetonia in the deal—the best whiffing game posted to far this season by a hurler.

The games yesterday put the finishing touches to a red-hot and close first round race. After various postponements because of a lot of rain, the Mullins team surmounted the heap and left the threatening Recreation and Salem News well behind.

The China, by defeating Leetonia yesterday, ended a spurt that began after a loss in each of the first two games. Since then, the Potters haven't been seriously threatened and Ritchie has been twirling superbly.

Francis Lannoy of Mullins set the Recs down several times when trouble was brewing, but he got in hot water on more occasions than he usually does. The factory workers had little trouble tagging Ralph Gregg for nine hits.

Joe Kelley, manager of the Old Timers, put in his two cents worth last night and literally kept his team in the game for the first four frames. Kelley smashed out the first hit from Lannoy and scored in the third. He then drove in two more Rec runs in the fourth after Clyde Miller made it on an error and Martin Debnar walked.

The China scored their runs to win in the fifth inning when Royling Shortstop Colazzi of Leetonia bobbled a line drive in center. He later failed to get the ball home and allowed a run to score. Ritchie smacked a single to score the other.

FRANKIE HAYES HAS DAY IN CLEVELAND

Gunning For New Major Record In Catching Straight Games

CLEVELAND, June 29.—This is Frankie Hayes day in League park, home of the Cleveland Indians.

For bunting accidents, the veteran backstop today will set a new major league record for consecutive games caught, eclipsing the mark of 217 made last year by Ray Mueller of the Cincinnati Reds.

The Tribe's opponent will be the Philadelphia Athletics, for whom Hayes played so many seasons before he was traded to Cleveland. Allie Reynolds is scheduled to pitch for the Indians and Steve Gerkin for the A's.

The Tribe walloped the Mackmen 11 to 0 yesterday, collecting 16 hits, including a homer inside the park by Jeff Heath, off Luther Knerr, and Replacement Charley Gassaway.

Jim Bagby shut the A's off with six hits.

O'Dea singled twice and doubled in three runs. Five Tribesmen, Heath, Mickey Rocco, Manager Lou Boudreau, Felix Mackiewicz and Bagby, made two hits.

Columbiana's Boosters pulled the upset of the season so far last night, defeating Case's Clippers 6-5 in an overtime softball contest at Firestone park in Columbiana to set into a tie for first and second with the loeers.

A line single in the ninth inning by Kenney Dowd pushed Dick Fisher across the plate with the winning run. Fisher scored from third after the bases had been loaded when Clipper Pitcher Bob Antran walked Jim Case. The first run scored after Marshall singled in Chuck Douglas to tie it up 5-5.

The other games yesterday saw the Winings service team lose an error-filled contest to the South Side Tigers 14-7. Twelve big errors helped the Tiger cause and spelled doom for Pitcher Bob Orr's side. Bob Hum of the Tigers was credited with the win.

Other runs in the Clipper-Booster game came in the fourth and sixth frames, when the Clippers got three in the fourth and one in the sixth. The Boosters scored two in each frame to make it 4-4 when the regulation seven frames were over.

Tuesday the All-Stars, idle last night, meet Winings and the South Side Tigers—still a threat for a top spot—will tangle with the Clippers.

Frankie Hayes' Record Up Today; Detroit Broadens Lead In American League

By JOE REICHLER, Associated Press Sports Writer

Frank Hayes will set a new major league endurance record for catchers today when he dons the mask and mitt for the Cleveland Indians against his former mates, the Philadelphia Athletics.

The 29-year-old iron man caught his 217th consecutive big league game yesterday to tie the mark set by Ray Mueller of Cincinnati last year.

Traded to the Indians three weeks ago for Receiver Buddy Roar, Hayes has been a potent factor in the Tribe's recent spurt which saw them win four of their last six games to move within a half game of the sixth-place, St. Louis Browns. Although batting under the 250 mark, he has driven in 23 runs and walked seven homers, third high in the league.

Bagby Turns Trick

Jim Bagby of the Indians rung up an 11-0 whitewash yesterday, spacing six Philadelphia hits for his second triumph of the campaign against eight losses. It was the Athletics' ninth straight defeat.

Detroit regained undisputed possession of the American league lead by defeating Washington 5-2 while the Browns were humbling the New York Yankees 9-4 in their third straight night contest.

Lefty Hal Newhouse, last year's top winner in the majors, appeared on his way to repeat by registering his 12th victory, tops this season, and his seventh in a row. Trailing 2-1, the Tigers pounced on the Senators' Roger Wolff for a pair of markers in the fifth frame and added two more later. Detroit now holds a one-game lead over the Yankees.

Six Jukucki handcuffed the New Yorkers for five frames and then coasted to an easy win as his mates pounded Starter Joe Page and Steve Rorer for six hits in the fifth. Vernon Stephens helped with his 13th round tripper.

Champs Lose

The World Champion St. Louis Cardinals narrowed the breach between themselves and the league leading Brooklyn Dodgers by defeating the Philadelphia Phillies 6-1 as the Dodgers were losing to Chicago's Cubs 11-8.

Pitcher Nick Strincevich and Outfielder Al Gionfriddo combined to defeat the Chicago for Pittsburgh, 3-1. Strincevich allowed only seven hits and was prevented from hurling a shutout by Nap Reyes fourth homer. Gionfriddo had a perfect four for four, driving in a run and scoring another.

Chuck Workman's homer with one on and two out in the ninth enabled the Boston Braves to defeat the Cincinnati Reds 7-6. Jim Tobin helped his own cause with a two-run homer, his third, in the fourth inning. Tommy Holmes of the Reds hit safely in his 24th consecutive game.

The American league Boston-Chicago tilt was postponed by rain.

STENCH OF DEATH STILL HOVERS OVER CITY OF BUDAPEST

(The following account of conditions in Budapest is the first dispatch by an American correspondent from the Hungarian capital since America's entry into World War II. A. I. Goldberg, who covered most of the European campaign with the United States Seventh army, visited Budapest in the course of a jeep journey that also took in Prague, Vienna and Bratislava.)

BY A. I. GOLDBERG
BUDAPEST, Hungary, June 29.—(Delayed)—The stench of death still hovers over Budapest, but at night orchestras play at sidewalk cafes amid the rubble of the Hungarian capital.
An estimated 4,500 bodies still lie in the ruins of Buda on the west side of the Danube. Residents labor through long daylight hours to clean wreckage left by the bombings and siege.
At night customers thread their way through the rubble to cafes where they talk until the midnight curfew.
Howard Byrne, correspondent for the Army newspaper Stars and Stripes, and I were hailed as the first Allied correspondents to visit Budapest in years.

Under Rigid Control
The city is under rigid Allied occupation control, and is dominated by Marshal K. Y. Voroshilov's Soviet forces. He is senior Allied officer and his troops are the actual occupying force for the city that once boasted a population of 1,500,000, but which has dwindled to around 900,000.
There is talk in the cafes that elections for the Hungarian parliament will be held in September as the first step in the establishment of a five-man council to rule the country. Former Premier Count Julius Karolyi may be one of the council members.

Of Budapest's famed luxury hotels only the Britannia still stands. It is used as a billet for Russian officers. The Luxor, Bristol, Carlton, Hungaria and St. Gelit's are granite shells.
The Budapest opera house is intact, and there are nearly 60 movie houses open.
Elizabeth's bridge has lost its center span, but Russian army engineers built a temporary span.

Ruins Border River
Many street cars are running, and there is running water in some buildings. There are railroad lines running through the city.
Felled bridges are still lying in the Danube, and German floating mines still prevent traffic on that waterway.

The city is in ruins all along the Danube water front, especially on the Buda side.
Acting representative for the Americans on the Allied control commission is Col. Dallas Townsend of Montclair, N. J., and New York City.

The food situation for all of Hungary is serious. Only 25 per cent of the normal grain crop was planted this spring. There are few vehicles and other equipment for the work of harvesting.
Many cattle herds have been dispersed, and there is no milk. A Russian order prohibits the slaughtering of cattle and there is no prospect of meat.

Recodification of Adoption Laws In State Is Proposed

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, June 28.—Married persons who present illegitimate children for adoption must notify their mates in the armed services under legislation in which the Ohio house of representatives today asked senate concurrence.

The request was on a house-approved amendment to a measure for recodification of adoption laws which, as passed by the senate, would have allowed probate judges to decide whether the innocent parent should be notified of the mate's indiscretion.

The amendment by Rep. Edwin P. Sawicki (D-Cuyahoga), as approved by the house, would be applicable to persons in civilian life as well as those in military service, and would require either spouse to notify the other if an illegitimate child was offered for adoption.

"The present law as now construed condones the misconduct of the wife while the husband is away fighting for his country," Sawicki said.

Mrs. Anna P. O'Neil (D-Summit) expressed belief the situation would be helped if more wives could be with their husbands overseas.

"I heartily endorse this bill pending in Congress to send wives of married men to be with their husbands in the occupation forces," she said.

She observed that little had been done to protect wives against the "play-boy" activities of husbands overseas.

LEAVES FROM A WAR CORRESPONDENT'S NOTEBOOK

—by Hal Boyle

BY GEORGE TUCKER
(Substituting For Hal Boyle)

WIESBADEN — Remember the big raid on Bari harbor in December 1943? The Luftwaffe came in low just at sunset, its favorite moment for attack, and got 23 ships. What made it so bad was the four ammunition ships. They made a big show when they went up together. Here is a hitherto unpublished angle of that costly affair. In all the maze of shipping crammed into that Italian harbor, one English ship whose luck had run out got a dead center hit with a 500-pound bomb.

Almost its entire personnel died, in a manner everyone hoped never would be necessary in this war. The ship was loaded with poison gas. All armies have to carry it—just in case. The Germans never knew how lucky they were.

Capitalistic note: In discus-

many had no financially independent aircraft industry on a competitive basis," he said. "I envied the United States more for that than for anything else."

The prettiest dog I ever saw was a big rangy animal named "Smokey Joe Bright." He is shaggy without being unkempt. He is relaxed but not lazy. His coat is a gorgeous hue that seems to catch fire when the sunlight hits it. Women all over the world have tried for a henna to match this rippling running flame but few ever matched it.

"He was only a little fella when I picked him up," said Lieut. H. R. Bright, Dallas, Tex. "He was mounting in a bombed-out house at St. Lo. His leg was broken. I took him to Second General Hospital and they X-rayed it and put a plaster cast on him. He's been with us ever since."

"Us," I gathered, was the 1374th Engineers Petroleum Distribution Co.

Lieut. Bright added, "I brush his teeth every morning when I brush mine. I give him two malted milk tablets every day to keep him healthy. Folks send 'em to me from home."
